

Public seminars with

Kyle Powys-Whyte

Associate Professor of Philosophy & Community Sustainability
Timnick Chair in the Humanities, Michigan State University

INDIGENOUS CLIMATE CHANGE STUDIES: DECOLONIZING JUSTICE, SCIENCE AND THE ANTHROPOCENE

January 31st
5:00 - 7:00 pm
Buchanan Tower, 1197

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY STUDIES

INDIGENOUS SCIENCE: A CONVERSATION WAYS OF KNOWING FOR COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH

February 1st
1:00 - 3:00 pm
ANSO 134

Indigenous/Science
UBC Research
Cluster

Kyle Powys-Whyte is an enrolled member of the Citizen Potawatomi Nation. His research interests include environmental justice and the politics of climate policy from an Indigenous perspective. He works with the Climate and Traditional Knowledges Workgroup, the Tribal Climate Camp, the U.S. Global Change Research Program and the Menominee Sustainable Development Institute. Recent (2018) publications include “Way Beyond the Lifeboat: An Indigenous Allegory of Climate Justice,” “Food Sovereignty, Justice and Indigenous Peoples,” and “Theorizing Indigeneity, Gender, and Settler Colonialism.”